Fees of use of lighting mechanisms are payable by all aircraft making a flight or landing, either during the night or during the day with poor visibility conditions, either at the request of the captain or for safety reasons, following an order issued by the authority responsible for lighting (art. 10 of the Decree of 24th January 1956). This fee is only applicable for passenger transportation. To benefit from this measure, the airline should operate at least 5 weekly rotations for at least one aeronautical ("IATA") season.

In all instances, a request including the details of scheduled rotations should be made in advance by the carrier to the operator teams.
